The heart is a strange organ, and sometimes, no matter how much you love them, the heart can decide to pull out, drop down or throw in. It may hurt, but this is the worst kind of pain. From her smiling face, to her sweet smile and her soft voice, Violette is everything to me. She is, to me, the best part of my own existence. If I was to lose her, I feel like there would be nothing to get my life started again. I am a simple man, but to be without her is an impossible sentence to be fulfilled. The problem I have is that Violette only has eyes for Mark. She thinks he is the perfect man for her, and I can only be there for her for the memories. When Mark disappeared, I was the one to find him. He was struggling to be found, and I took it upon myself to try to help him out. When I found him, he was dying. The doctors are helping him fight for his life, but it looks like he is losing the battle. Violette has found some new friends, but she is still looking to Mark to be her one and only. I can't go near Mark because of the danger. All of the attacks I've had have been done to my physical body, and the danger is coming from Mark. I can't allow the man that I love to be killed, so I will become a ghost to watch over Mark until the day he dies. It has been three years since Mark was brought back from the dead, but Violette still loves him like she did the day she met him. What will Mark and Violette do? This is a novel about a man who is given the chance to be reunited with the woman he loves. And it is a novel about a woman who is reunited with the man who has her heart. Violette, please don't give up on me. This story is set in the universe of my story - the Legacy of Violette. It does not end until the death of Mark. The Author of "Violette" has also created a story within this universe, "Brotherhood of Tears." This 82157476af
